FACTORY ACCUSER DENIES 'ART' POSES

EX-MINISTER GIVES LE TO 2 GIRLS ABOUT LOVE VISIT TO BOSTON HOTEL

With black eyes snapping, Antoinette ("Tony") Fortin, former New Bedford tourist girl, denied in Superior court today that she had had pictures taken in flimsy garb or had garb at all.

Tony, being questioned sharply in cross-examination at the trial of Guy Willis Holmes, unspooled New Bedford photos, against whom she has made serious charges, denied also she had been familiar with a cook in the ten room.

With an alibi lined up to back his assertion, Holmes denied generally and, specifically, that he had love trysts with Antoinette.

Hobbling to the stand on two canes the ex-minister who is on trial charged with being the ruler of "Tony's" child and with a violation of the law.

TEACHERS MARCH 190 PUPILS OUT OF FIRE PERIL

Quoted by their teachers, who told them they were having a fire drill 119 children, pupils in the Lincoln primary school, West Somerville, fled from their classroom today and were on the sidewalk in one minute while flames were fighting flames over their heads.

Without panic, calmly as though the drill were part of the school work, the children, marched out in long rows from the first to the fourth grades. The school, situated on Broadway a few doors from Engine 4 hours had caught fire a few minutes before.

Miss Eliza Lunt, teacher in charge, rang the bell for fire drill when she learned the roof was on fire. Her little charges marched to safety while Patrolman Thomas A. Donovan stood by to render aid if necessary.

Engine 4 crew made short work of the blaze. Sparks from a nearby chimney are thought to have caused the fire.

Patrolman Donovan discovered the fire. He saw a wisp of smoke coming from the roof and quietly warned the teachers to get the children out. He then phoned for Engine 4 and helped the teachers lead the pupils out. School was dismissed for the rest of the morning.

'PHONE GHOST' SENDS GIRL INTO COLLAPSE

South Deerfield, April 8 (N.E.S.)—Miss Amy Doyle, a school teacher at West Whately public school and a housewife at the home of Solomon William Briccage of Whately, was in a state of nervous collapse today as a result of the weird voice of the "telephone ghost," heard on the line between this town and Whately.

Town authorities of Whately and South Deerfield, cooperating with telephone officials, were making an investigation today to determine the source of the ghostly voice.

Investigation of the case, however, and pain interspersed with bits of poetry and an occasional prayer have been heard by subscribers on the line.

A few of timid telephone operators who refuse to remain at their posts alone have created a difficult condition for the phone company.

Investigators think a "wire-tap" is responsible for the voice, heard to be that of a woman. This theory cannot be upheld, however, as no one is known to be found. None of the parties on the line is responsible. It has been ascertained for a set time all receivers were removed and subscribers lined up. Finally the voice came with a spooky thrill, convicting all interested the subscribers were not responsible.

FULLER ASKED IN CABLE PLEAS TO SAVE SACCO, VANZETTI FROM CHAIR

Laborite members of the British Parliament today demanded of Governor Fuller that he commute the expected death sentences of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti and that he order the men released from custody.

The cablegram from the British lawmakers was only one of a number that have poured into the State House, all demanding that the two slayers be saved from the electric chair.

Cablegrams from Buenos Aires, told of a general strike that has been called there in protest against the action of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts in denying Sacco and Vanzetti a new trial.

The cablegram from the British laborites was one of the strongest that the Governor has received.

DEBATE STIRS IRE IN G. O. P. RANKS IN HUB

The wrath of influential Republicans against the Roosevelt Club for sponsoring the Borchgrevink prohibition debate this evening in Symphony Hall manifested itself today in ways that augured ill for G. O. P. serenity in the Bay State.

The club's president, Frank W. Stearns, eldest friend of President Coolidge, had returned from the Roosevelt Club because he does not believe, as does the club, that constitutional prohibition is a debatable question.

In spite of these various evidences of displeasure, former Senator Butler, who is national Republican chairman, is to sit on the platform.

Morgan Butler, son of former Senator William M. Butler, returned debate tickets that had been sent to him, accompanying them, according to Washington, with a message that he was "not interested."

Official announcement was made by the club's president that Frank W. Stearns, eldest friend of President Coolidge, had returned from the Roosevelt Club because he does not believe, as does the club, that constitutional prohibition is a debatable question.

FULLER IN VETO WARNS OF CRUSHING TAX LOAD

Shouting an alarm over the "present crushing burden of taxation, greater now than at any other period of history," Governor Alvin T. Fuller today sent to the Legislature the abrupt veto message of his administration.

With a solemn warning, he vetoed the legislative bill which fixed the Boston tax limit at $11, a figure which he previously demanded be cut to $12.50.

"Let me admonish you that continued increase in taxation will mean the end of the state," he said.

THE Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad will present to its stockholders a handsome "melon"—otherwise $22,000,000 cash. It is a good melon, and due largely to good management.

Many farmers with somebody would present some such melon to them. Perhaps President Coolidge will think out something almost as good between now and Fall. He certainly would like to do it.

THERE IS much prosperity in this country and, fortunately for us, it is not all based on "natural resources"—oil, iron, coal, forests, good soil, etc. Most of them are good, but they are not all that there is to it.

Investigation of the case, however, and pain interspersed with bits of poetry and an occasional prayer have been heard by subscribers on the line.

during the debate between United States Senator William E. Borah and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, unless he change his mind, "on the time arrive."

Persons close to Frank W. Stearns had previously denied that he had resigned from the Roosevelt Club, but Stearns' declaration definitely settled that point.

It was Stearns' non-involvement, chairman of the Republican State Committee, to whom the not withdrawn invitation for the State committee members was sent.

Kerr's police from Back Bay police division and the Back Bay traffic station have been ordered to handle the crowds that are anticipated about Symphony Hall as the hour of the "debate of the decade" nears.

An entire nation will listen in on the Hub as the two foremost giants argue the most important question of the generation—Wet or Dry?—for the debate will be broadcast from Station WJAC, Boston, 410 metres, and Station WGAN, Providence, 367 metres, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Undismayed by the turmoil in party ranks that discussion of the question was causing, President Washburn, studiously applied himself at his office to his 115-word speech which will open the festivities at that hour. His speech will take exactly 45 seconds.

ALL TICKETS TAKEN.
A throng is expected about Symphony Hall entrance in spite of announcement by Senator Cleveland A. Chandler of the Roosevelt Club that he had been told to go and that no one but the 3,300 ticket-holders can be admitted.

Police have orders to make ticket-holders show their passes before reaching the entrance and "deadlines" will be maintained at a safe distance from the doors. Ticket offices at the hall, purveying tickets for other entertainments, will be closed so that persons cannot reach the lobby by subterfuge. This arrangement was suggested and made by Gordon D. Simpson of the Symphony Hall management.

The specific topic of debate is "Should the Republican national platform of 1926 advocate the repeal of the eighteenth (prohibition) amendment?"

First-Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, Against-Senator William E. Borah of Idaho.

Both Dr. Butler and Senator Borah, the "wet" and the "dry," arrived in Boston and went straight to hotels for rest. Dr. Butler to the Copple-Plaza and Senator Borah to the Sheraton in Bay State road.

Last-hour returns of tickets poured into Roosevelt Club headquarters in Bechstein street and the Symphony Hall box office all day, but all applicants were doomed to disappointment. At the club headquarters the door was placed with a sign reading: "No tickets for

QUINCY SEEKS NEW CRUISERS

An appeal to President Coolidge and other governmental leaders to award contracts for the six new navy cruisers to private shipyards was made today by William A. Bradford, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Quincy, where the Fore River shipbuilding plant is situated.

Besides the President, telegrams were sent to Secretary of the Navy William C. Dwyer, chairman of the Senate naval affairs committee, Congressman Butler of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House naval committee, and Congressman Lewis A. Frothingham of Massachusetts.

FULLER WARNS OF TAX BURDEN

with something more than murmuring," he declared in his emphatic veto message. "Unless a halt is called, this surmounting will not be from the inside of the State House, but from the outside."

"The taxpayers are already murmuring over the great burden they are carrying. And who are the taxpayers? They are the humble folk of life who are well paid for their labor. Just where do they have an opportunity to state their protest? How great must be the burden before they will cry 'State!'"

In every branch of government—Federal, State and municipal—the burden of taxation is today of paramount importance, more so than in any other period of history, because of its present crushing weight.

PUBLIC DUTY IGNORED.

"The public official who ignores the importance of this fact or attempts to pass over it lightly will unquestionably have a rude and bitter awakening when the records of public service receive the scrutiny of the public."

But of far greater importance is the fact that failure to act with careful consideration on such matters is a waste of the public duty."

The Governor characterized as "outrageous" the city's failure to collect $2,500,000 in outstanding taxes and he declared the tax limit could well be cut to $1,600,000, the amount recommended by the Finance Commission.

The $12 tax limit refers to the amount the city may collect for its own uses, aside from the amount necessary to collect to meet State and county requirements.

Referring to the action of the Legislature in rejecting his recommendation,

Sacco-Vanzetti Case Is Analyzed

By FELIX FRANKFURTER, LL. B.

THE Sacco-Vanzetti case has again been brought to the fore by the denial of their appeal by the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Immediately on the handing down of this decision, international interest was awakened in the fight that has been on for six years to save these men from the electric chair.

From England, France, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and South American countries the cables report a flaming interest in this case.

In this with its policy of presenting all matters as fully as possible, the Boston Evening American has a commendation for a $12.50 figure in the bill, Governor Fuller said: "After a long hearing I was convinced a low price limit than that adopted by the Legislature could well be enacted and I do not recommend it. It received scant consideration."

The Mayor of Boston promised the voters an economical administration of the city of Boston and I am going to help him give it to them.

CHAPTER I

For more than six years the Sacco-Vanzetti case has been before the courts of Massachusetts. Such extraordinary delay, in a State where ordinary murder trials are promptly dispatched, in itself challenges attention.

A long succession of disclosures has aroused interest far beyond the boundaries of Massachusetts, and even of the United States, until the case has become one of those rare causes celebre which are of international concern. My aim is to give in brief compass an accurate review of the facts of the case from its earliest stages to its present posture.

The following account is based upon the record of the successive court proceedings through which the case has gone, with such references to Please turn to Page 7, Column 1.

The cablegram carried eleven signatures, as follows:

CLEMENTIE IS DEMANDED.

Another cablegram was received from "The Red A.L." a German communist organization.

The cablegram read:

"Great indignation in Germany over the new commission (trial) of Sacco and Vanzetti. We demand your pardon and release in the name of a half a million members."

(Signed)

Another telegram was sent to the Governor from Boston. The message was in Italian and was unsigned. Translated, the message read:

"The voice of the people—the voice of God."

The strike in Buenos Aires is the most serious demonstration that has yet been staged on behalf of the two men.

The South American city is completely tied up by the strike, which may be indefinitely prolonged after tomorrow's court proceedings.

At the Charleston State prison where Vanzetti is confined and at the Norfolk County jail at Dedham where Sacco is a prisoner, plans for removal of the two men to the Dedham court house for sentence, tomorrow, have been completed.

Deputy sheriffs of Norfolk county

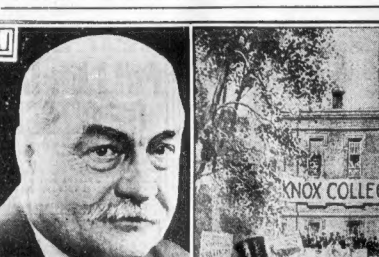

WILL MAKE OWN PLEAS.

These pleas, it is understood, will be dramatic in the extreme, although both the prisoners will be handicapped by their inability to speak fluent English.

The Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee today sent out requests to widely known educators and others to join the staff of speakers to appear at the various mass meetings planned in the effort to bring an avalanche of public sentiment down upon Governor Fuller to induce him to retrieve the death sentence.

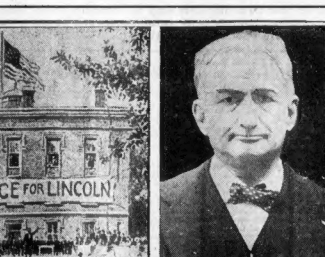

Already some 10,000 circulars have been sent out by the committee, and hundreds of thousands will be sent out after the final slogan words are pronounced by Judge Thayer.

ARRAIGNS "DRYS"
President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University will urge return to pre-war conditions by demanding the repeal of the 18th amendment in his debate with Senator Borah, champion of prohibition.

WHERE "OLD ABE" MET "LITTLE GIANT"
On a stand erected on the campus of Knox College in Galesburg, Ill., "Abe" Lincoln met Stephen A. Douglas in the first of the series of debates (destined to be considered the classic of American political arguments) in their contest for the United States Senate. Lincoln's plain talk carried further with his audience than the fiery eloquence of his Democratic rival on that bright August day in 1858, but Douglas won the election.

PRESIDES TONIGHT
Robert M. Washburn, president of the Roosevelt Club of Boston will preside over tonight's debate on prohibition between the president of Columbia University, "wet" champion and the "dry" Senator.

LINCOLN CALM UNDER FIRE
Often made the object of personal attack by his irascible opponent, Lincoln always remained cool and ever made the retort courteous to the slurs of his opponent. On one occasion, when the "Little Giant" accused "Old Abe" of tending bar, Lincoln said in rejoinder: "There is just one thing the judge forgot to relate. He says I sold liquor over the counter. He forgot to tell you while I was on one side of the counter the judge was always on the other."

FOE OF "WETS"
Senator William E. Borah of Idaho is a staunch believer in "no liquor" and advocates even more drastic legislation than the Volstead Act to make the United States as dry as the Sahara Desert.

FACES TRIAL FOR HER LIFE APRIL 18
On the day Mrs. Snyder goes on trial for her life for the murder, with Henry Judd Gray, of her husband, Mrs. Lucy Baxter Earley, shown here with Atty. Henry Hirschberg, will go to trial in Newburg, N. Y.

"TWIN CRIMES"
Mrs. Snyder's case is almost a counterpart of that of Mrs. Earley. Their end may be the same—the black mask—the electric switch.

INNOCENT VICTIMS
It's the children who suffer most in these so-called "loved murders." Here is Daniel Earley, Jr., the actual victim in the grim tragedy of life and love and death.

Note the parallel in the general disposition, even in characteristics between the two alleged "vampire slayers."

NOW, THE LAW WANTS HER LIFE
Before "illicit love" and murder entered her life Mrs. Snyder was happy. Here she is with her mother and little daughter, Lorraine, at Rockaway Beach, without a care in the world. Then came Gray, and her life turned drab.

28 MEN LISTED IN RED BOOK BY MRS. SNYDER

New York, April 8.—Twenty-eight men whose names Mrs. Ruth Snyder kept in a little red leather book were sought for questioning today by Queens County authorities in an effort to learn more of the accused woman's life prior to the murder of her husband, Alvin.

The book, of the type used for memoranda, was found in Mrs. Snyder's home in Queens Village, according to Dist. Atty. Newcombe.

It contains the names of 28 men with their addresses and telephone numbers, he said. Mrs. Snyder has denied she was interested in any man except Henry Judd Gray, accused with her of killing her husband.

Gray's name, it was said, is not in the red book. His name, however, was found in a blue book obtained by police shortly after Mrs. Snyder's arrest. It was his name in this book that led to Mrs. Snyder's confession, which she later retracted.

First steps to obtain answers for Mrs. Snyder and Gray were taken today when attorneys for the widow served a copy of the motion to that effect on District Attorney Newcombe, who will oppose all moves to have the two defendants tried separately.

Gray's wife, Isabella, was reported near collapse today and probably will not be able to attend the trial. She is under a physician's care. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Kellenbach, who told of her daughter's serious condition, said:

"Isabella has been wasting away since Judd got into this awful mess. My daughter wants to go to court. If only to refute reports that she has deserted him. But I don't if she ever could stand the ordeal."

GRPL VANISHES AFTER A ROW WITH TEACHER

Police departments throughout Metropolitan Boston are searching for Thelma Everett, ten-year-old West Somerville school student, who disappeared yesterday after some slight trouble with her teacher at inspector, residing in Garrison avenue, West Somerville.

The child is the daughter of Samuel R. Everett, a Boston Elevated inspector, residing in Garrison avenue, West Somerville.

Boy Scouts may be enlisted in the search for the girl (she is not located before the day is over, while students at the Cutler school plan a house-to-house canvass of the West Somerville section, at the conclusion of their classes, today).

The child's teacher, following the difficulty with the youngster, started to escort her home to talk over the situation with her parents. When a few blocks away from her home the child made an excuse that she had to go on an errand and left the teacher. This was the last seen of her.

The Rev. George D. Heath, pastor of the College Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, where the girl and her parents attend, conferred with the Somerville police today over the advisability of calling out the Boy Scouts to search for the child. The father of the youngster also conferred with the police.

The description of the child, broadcast by police, follows: Four feet tall, grey eyes, light blonde, bobbed hair, wearing a red hat, blue dress and dark coat with fur-trimmed collar.

Chicago, April 8 (A.P.)—Colonel Edward C. Carrington once severely cuffed his wife, Mrs. Anna Walcott Carrington, whom he is seeking to divorce; her two daughters and Mrs. Carrington's mother, a deposition read into the court record today declared.

Answered by his belief that Mrs. Carrington had been intimate with the colonel's brother, Campbell, and drunk, Colonel Carrington entered his wife's New York apartment and after abusing her and her relatives, beat them with his walking stick, a deposition from Warren Walsh, Mrs. Carrington's brother, said. Walsh said he had been advised of the attack by Elmer Snyder, Mrs. Carrington's daughter.

Worcester, April 8.—Henry L. Parker and Nathan Sigel sued Henry L. Parker in Superior Court, both won.

Sigel's verdict in the case awarded Mr. Sigel $281 damages from Mr. Parker and awarded Mr. Parker $281 damages from Mr. Sigel. The suits were an aftermath of a motor car collision between the Sigel and Parker cars.

Members of the union are ordered not to solicit trade from customers of the company or to persuade prospective customers to withhold their patronage.

BANS OF APPEAL.
The appeal, according to Attorney Mansfield, will be based on the assertion that the decree is against the evidence and that the court has not the right to order judgment against individual members of the union.

Cross and interest are to be computed by James P. McWhorter, clerk in the equity branch of the Superior Court, and added to the $60,647 judgment. The award of damages follows a decision of the U. S. Supreme Court in the celebrated, Duquesne case in which some of the union members had to sell or mortgage their property in order to meet the court mandate.

WOMAN'S HELD IN $25,000 ON BAD CHECKS

Captured after eluding police for two years, Marion Brazier, possessor of many aliases and said by police to be one of the most daring "room" women in the country, was held in $25,000 bonds when arraigned on bad check indictments in Superior Court today.

She was sent to Charles street jail when she failed to produce bail. James Morrissey of the Boston Protective Association and Special Officer Frank Mullen set the trap which resulted in the woman's arrest. For two years police and detective agencies have tried to capture her, but in vain. She slipped out of the last set traps.

Slipping into Boston she paid a surprise visit to "Cecilia's Tom" Wye, whom two years ago she had extorted for $100,000, according to police. Morrissey and Mullen made the arrest.

China Still Has Some Fourth of July to Send to America

Despite the fact that in China, the land of fireworks and was Young America will not suffer this year from lack of noisemakers, judging from the entries at the Customs House from Pacific coast ports today.

More than $24,000 worth of the small brand, together with big shipments of punk are being loaded from ships at Commodore Point.

The consignments were rushed to China before impending trouble would delay their shipment to the West coast for transfer here.

BULLETINS!

London, April 8 (A.P.)—Drivers were ordered today at the Ministry of War to proceed to proceed to China.

Shanghai, April 8 (A.P.)—Effective tonight, the curfew hours here are limited from 11 p. m. to 4 a. m., instead of 10 to 1, because of complaints from business men.

London, April 8 (A.P.)—The Hong Kong correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph reports that warships between Hankow and Wuhan are picking up Spanish priests who hurriedly evacuated towns along the Yangtze.

OUTLIVES SON ONLY A WEEK

Just a week after her son died, Mrs. Sarah J. Larsen was herself summoned by the Grim Reaper. The son was Robert G. Larsen, general manager for the R. F. Keith and Keith-Albee theatrical interests in New England.

Mr. Larsen was stricken while on a visit to New York. News of his death prostrated his aged mother and she never recovered from the shock. She expired early today at her home at No. 21 Walcott street, Dorchester. Mrs. Larsen would have been 90 years of age had she lived until the fourth of July.

A son, Louis H. Larsen, and a daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Larsen, survive. Four grandchildren, Ray E. Larsen, Ralph R. Larsen and Mrs. Albert McCain also survive.

The funeral service will be held in the Highland Church, Roxbury, on Sunday afternoon at 2. Interment will be made in Forest Hills Cemetery.

CAMBRIDGE HUGGER ADMITS FOUR BREAKS

Brought from Concord Reformatory where he is serving a sentence for hugging Cambridge women several months ago, John J. Mullen today faced four charges of breaking and entering carrying a re-sentencing.

He pleaded guilty in East Cambridge District Court and the charges were placed on file in view of the sentence he is now serving.

Verdict Confirmed

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today handed down a decision confirming a $10,000 verdict which was won in Federal Court more than a year ago by the Rev. John E. Lilback, formerly of Worcester, now of Brooklyn, against the "Steamship," a Finnish newspaper published in Worcester.

JAPANESE LAND MORE FORCES AT SHANGHAI

Shanghai volunteers had been placed about the Sheng shan consulate at Shanghai. All persons entering or leaving are searched, he said.

The execution of General Pi Chai Chen, former admiral of the Chinese fleet and defense commissioner of the Yangtze area, was said to have occurred at Tientsin. Williams reported. Admiral Pi commanded the Shanghai defenses when that city was captured by the Chinese Nationalist army.

Statements by the French Foreign Office that the United States, Italy, Great Britain, France and Japan were preparing to present a joint note of protest to the Peking government over mistreatment of the various foreign legations in China failed to find confirmation at the State Department.

Secretary Kellogg and other officials declined to comment. It was evident, however, that they were not expecting any protest to the Peking authorities.

American demands for reparation, it has been consistently indicated, would be made by Minister MacMurray at Peking to the Nationalist regime at Hankow.

All of the powers maintain diplomatic relations with the Nationalist government at Peking, historically the capital.

Chiang Leaves Shanghai for Battle Front

Shanghai, April 8 (A.P.)—General Chiang Kai-shek left Shanghai for Nanking this afternoon. It is feared his trip is to prepare for further Cantonese military operations north of the Yangtze River.

Wang Ching-wei, chairman of the Kuomintang, or political organization of the Cantonese, left secretly Wednesday for Hankow.

He has made strenuous efforts to repair the breach between the moderate branch of the Cantonese, headed by Chiang Kai-shek, and the Leftist branch.

The Cantonese body met this afternoon and discussed the protest from the Soviet Consul-General against the stationing of municipal police around the Consulate. It was decided to refer the protest to the Shanghai Municipal Council.

The Municipal Council ordered the police guard established, it was explained, because the commissioner of police was informed that the raid on the buildings near the Soviet Embassy in Peking Wednesday revealed matters which were likely to create feeling against the Soviet Consulate here.

As the Chinese papers of Shanghai are read everywhere up the Yangtze Valley, this closing of their columns to the political bureau probably is the hardest blow the bureau has received since the refusal carrying a re-sentencing at Hankow.

General Chiang is also preparing to call a party convention at Nanking, with a view to placing on file in view of the sentence he is now serving.

The Chinese banks are supplying funds to General Chiang, who also is receiving customs and surtaxes amounting to approximately a million taels (about $1,000,000) monthly. Quo Tai-shi, Nationalist Commissioner of Frontier Affairs in the Shanghai district, made an official call on the Russian Consul-General to express regret over the raid by Northern Chinese soldiers on the building near the Soviet Consulate in Peking.

3-SPEED FORD COMING, WITH LOWER BODY

(Copyright, 1927, by International News.)
Detroit, April 8.—Henry Ford will build four-cylinder cars, with a planetary transmission, as long as he lives, International News Service learned today.

In line with this policy, Ford now plans to announce a new model four-cylinder car this summer. It will be a three-forward-speed car, with a new design of planetary transmission, underslung semi-elliptic springs, lower body and a chassis and frame of aluminum and steel.

The new Ford will be ready for distribution by July 1, but Ford has not as yet definitely fixed the date for placing the car on the market. Its price has not been determined, but Ford now contemplates a considerable reduction on existing prices.

A new eight-cylinder car is being experimented upon at the Ford factories now and this, too, may be announced at the same time. It is expected that the new car will be ready for the market until next fall. It will be Edsel Ford's contribution to the automobile and Henry Ford has not shown anywhere near the interest in it that he is giving to the new four-cylinder Ford.

The eight-cylinder car probably will not be identical with the present eight-cylinder Lincoln, which is Edsel's pride and the aristocrat of the Ford industry. The name "Edsel" was suggested, but Ford is understood to have frowned upon it.

SAYS CHURCH CAN SOLVE PROHIBITION PROBLEM

Westerville, April 8 (A.P.)—The prohibition enforcement problem will be solved "when the church demands prohibition enforcement with the same emphasis that the Volstead Act," officials of the Anti-Saloon League of America declared in a statement today.

The statement will be sent to church members throughout the country. It was signed by Bishop Thomas Nicholson of the Methodist church at Detroit, president of the Anti-Saloon League of America; Dr. Howard H. Runkle, associate general superintendent and founder of Washington, Wayne B. Wheeler, the league's attorney and legislative superintendent, and Dr. Ernest H. Christman, general manager of the league's publishing interests.

for 21 years, was next called. He presented a number of papers church records, bearing bona fide signatures of Holmes.

He told of how the Methodist Church board had removed Holmes as minister after Dr. Roberts had interviewed "Tony" at Winthrop and had preferred charges against the man she accused.

Dr. Roberts admitted, however, that "Tony" at first denied there had been any intimacies between her and Holmes.

Dr. Roberts said he knew a Mr. Smith, H. Kenneth Smith.

WRITING EXPERT TESTIFIES.

The Rev. James F. Cooper, principal of the East Greenwich Academy and a Methodist minister, followed Dr. Roberts and testified to the method of Holmes' removal.

Then Wilbur F. Turner, handwrit expert, took the stand. He said it was about the sixth time he had appeared as an expert witness.

He said he had compared Holmes' signature on church papers with the signature on the hotel register and that, in his opinion, the name on the hotel register was written by the same hand that inscribed the church paper signatures.

300 Women's & Misses' New Spring Dresses

One of the finest purchases we have ever made

So good that we bought them immediately and took every available opportunity to have these dresses in our store in time for week end shoppers. The dresses are on sale now—some of them are shown in our windows. You should lose no time in taking advantage of this scoop.

Jewelry, gloves, handbags and other Easter costume accessories, also brought back on the plane, this morning, shown in our windows today.

The Story!

A HOVEY dress buyer was sent over to New York last Tuesday, with instructions to buy the best Easter dresses that could be made to sell at $15.

THURSDAY afternoon we heard that an extraordinary group of dresses was available. Two Hovey executives immediately made arrangements with the Colonial Air Transport Co. for passage to New York that night, on the tri-motor, passenger-express aeroplane, "Chicago." Several hours later the Hovey representatives were in New York.

THEY examined the dresses, found them even beyond their expectations—and decided to lose no time in getting them back to Boston in time for today's and Saturday's shoppers.

AT 5:45 o'clock this morning, the Hovey officials, with their cargo of dresses, were speeding back to Boston at the rate of 100 miles an hour; they landed in Boston at 8:40 o'clock this morning; shortly after 9 o'clock the dresses were on sale in the store and displayed in the windows—at 10 o'clock this news was in the papers.

ENOUGH dresses were brought over for today's selling; the balance of the order, which was sent by rail, will be ready Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

SAPIRO DEFENDS $4,000 POTATO 'CHANGE' LOANS

Detroit, April 8 (A.P.)—Two loan totaling $4,000 from the Los Angeles brokerage firm of Sapiro & Zuckerman through Aaron Sapiro to the organization committee of the Idaho Potato Growers' Exchange were annulled today by Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, chief of counsel for Henry Ford, as evidence of bad faith and defended as entirely proper by Sapiro, who seeks $10,000 upon slightest allegations of libel.

Senator Reed termed Sapiro and Zuckerman speculators, and demanded from Sapiro whether the notes and his subsequent actions did not indicate that the potato growers, whom he repeatedly cooperatively attempted to deliver them from speculators, had not instead been bamboozled together by the speculators and finally delivered into their hands.

Sapiro replied that the loans, one for $2,500 and the other for $1,500 had been requested from the organization committee of the growers and that he acted for them in a matter entirely proper.

Kingstown, Ireland (St. Vincent, April 8 (A.P.)—The four planes of the goodwill flight of the United States army arrived here at 11 a. m. today.

WOMAN TELS OF 'ATTACK BY OFFICER'

Mrs. Madeline Prentiss of Washington street, Dorchester, was the principal witness today at a public hearing given Samuel Shebbelsope, colored, former member of the Boston police department.

The hearing is being held before Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson at the request of the disclaimed officer, who is a World War veteran, and thus entitled to the public hearing.

It was as a result of the story originally told by Mrs. Prentiss that the officer was dismissed from the police force by a trial board of three captains.

According to her story, which was repeated on the stand today, Mrs. Prentiss was returning to her home early on the morning of Feb. 8 when the alleged attack was made on her by the policeman. Mrs. Prentiss admitted on the stand she could not identify Shebbelsope as her assailant, but the accused man had previously admitted to his superiors he was the officer in question.

Mrs. Prentiss told Commissioner Wilson she was returning to her home on the morning of February 8 when she was taken ill. She rested in the Dudley street terminal of the

The third officer, she said, took her in front of the residence of Dr. Nathaniel Levy in Blue Hill avenue. She lost consciousness and when she regained her sensibilities she was being removed to the Boston City Hospital in a police ambulance, she said.

She refused to remain at the hospital and returned to her home after which she reported to police headquarters.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

College Actors Score Big Hits in Hasty Pudding Club Show

GIVEN ONE SUCH LITHE AND CHARMING "GIRL" AS Scott Wilson in a Hasty Pudding cast, and at once the show is bound to be worth while. Given two such, and immediately the Springfield theatricals of the famous club achieve a smashing success. "Gentlemen, the Queen" had, in fact, two Queens, both with a nimbleness of foot well high extraordinary, and carrying lead honors with abandon and agility. Scott Wilson as "Elizabeth of England" and E. de S. Melcher as "Mayme of Monomonia" could dance their way to fame on any stage. Certainly they give the 81st annual Hasty Pudding show a niche all its own in Pudding history.

SCOTT WILSON HAS FOLLOVED A BRIGHT WAY THROUGH SEVERAL Pudding shows, but at the summer "I stand after his name on the program it's likely this is his last appearance as a collegian. Mr. Melcher remains to twinkle his toes another year, however, for his showpiece is not due until 1928. G. Higginson, fiery and Spanish and doing a fandango with grace and fervor, is another headliner the Puddingers may well be proud of. A crowded house greeted "Gentlemen, the Queen" with much laughter and applause, countless flowers and deep appreciation.

VINCENT GIRLS WERE THERE TO PASS FRIENDLY JUDGMENT on Pudding theatrical efforts. The results were apparently most satisfactory. Miss Hope Patterson and Miss Corneille Clarke, Miss Josephine Jewell, Mrs. Theodore Eliot, Miss Isabella Grandin, Miss Isabel Shaw, Miss Elmer Sutton, each was a delighted onlooker at the merry spectacle. Mrs. Eliot with her parents, the Albert F. Bissell, took special pride in the performance of Albert E. Bissell, 24, who was Sir Hudson Essex.

IN ONE GROUP WERE MRS. THOMAS E. P. RICE AND MRS. Quincy Shaw, Jr., nearly as another smart young matron, Mrs. Evans Dick, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Sibley Webster, Mrs. John L. Grandin, Jr., Mrs. John L. Ames and her daughter, Miss Muriel Ames, Mrs. Albert S. Whittier, Mr. and Mrs. Moses Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Howe, Mrs. Eleanor Frothingham, the Alexander White sides, Mrs. Edward Burlingame Hill, Miss Marie Louise Gray, Miss Theresa Winsor, and Miss Dorothy Wald were in the applauding throng that called for encore after encore.

MRS. DANIEL FROST COWTHICK WAS A HANDSOME YOUNG matron present. Mrs. R. H. Bristol Draper brought a party of 100 "Gentlemen, the Queen." Mrs. Draper's very handsome gown was of soft shell pink and her wrap a luxurious affair of ermine banded and colored in white. The Drapers are going down to Bermuda for a short holiday and to spend Easter in the Summer Isles. They will be at the Princess Hotel.

THESE BRIGHT YOUNG HASTY PUDDING MEN, NOT AT ALL averse to having sponsors agree for their Spring theatricals, have rounded up something like 2,000 matrons whose names glorify a lengthy list. Very properly, Mrs. A. Lawrence Lowell, wife of Harvard's president, is a chief sponsor, and to the others "down" for honor, it is a brilliant roll from one end of the alphabet to the other.

FRIENDS OF MRS. FLORENCE CLOSE GALE ARE MORE THAN pleased at the prospect of one of her dramatic interpretations, set for next Wednesday evening at the Conservatory of Music. Cards have gone out for this affair to Mrs. Gale's intimates and admirers, who anticipate a delightful evening, as she chooses for interpretation "The Life of Queen Victoria."

CHRISTOPHER SHOP DIRECTORS, AND SPECIALLY MRS. Horace Morison, are beaming with joy for these days at the extremely serious check that came to the Shop as financial return for the Fashion Show at Home Beautiful. Mrs. Morison, heart and soul devoted to the Shop and its advancement, believes that the "Fashion Show" in its great success, pointed the way in which further benefits should go—and so an enormous costume ball, to benefit the Shop, will without doubt have large place on next Winter's schedule.

SO MANY PEOPLE OWN SPLENDID, AUTHENTIC OLD costumes, and so very many people, of the two sexes, like nothing better than to "dress up" the Christopher Shop people consider a costume ball a bang-up attraction. They plan to put on an enormous affair, as perfect as every attention to detail can make it, and to have the costumes varied and picturesque and true to their periods. A large ball of the costume variety should lend much zest to the opening season another autumn.

TO INCREASE YOUR WEIGHT JUST GET EXCITED

Excited spectators and "thrill-seekers" at baseball games and horse races which a great deal more than persons who are nonchalant and all still. In the building of grandstands, such as the one just completed here for the opening of the Spring racing meet, April 20, the fact has to be taken into consideration. It has been estimated by the architect that if a grandstand is designed to hold a crowd excited to weigh normally 200 tons, a foundation and supports must be provided which will stand the weight of at least 1,000 tons. A crouching person adds 50 to 65 per cent. to his weight in straining himself up, and to rise from a sitting position adds nearly 80 per cent. to his weight. By rising with a sudden jerk, as baseball and football fans are apt to do at exciting moments, his weight is increased so that it is possible to add momentarily more than 150 per cent. to one's weight.

GIFFORD SEES HOOVER IN TELEVISION RECEIVER AS HE HEARS HIM TALK

GLASS SCREEN ON WALL ALSO TELEVISES HOOVER FOR ASSEMBLY.

HE NOT ONLY HEARS BUT SEES SECRETARY MILES AWAY
Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., is shown seated in New York speaking to Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover and SEEING HIM at the same time, although he was in Washington. That's what television is doing. It's going to be on your radio soon, too, so you can SEE the show you hear.

Washington, April 5.—Radio moving picture reproducers will be just as common in the America of the future as the ordinary receiving set of the present time, Dr. J. H. Dellinger, chief of the radio laboratory of the Bureau of Standards, said today.

Following the remarkable demonstration by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Dellinger said that it is a simple step from experimental demonstration to commercial practice.

PICTURES COMING SOON.

Not only will visual radio become a practical accomplishment, but it will be possible to produce apparatus to bring pictures of events to the home of the family of moderate means, as cheaply as are manufactured the ordinary radio receivers of today, according to Dellinger.

Experimental use of a number of radio wave channels on regular schedules for broadcasting still and moving pictures is anticipated by the Federal Radio Commission. Members of the commission are deeply impressed with this rapidly developing phase of the art and are prepared to set aside certain channels for its continuation.

Within the next twelve months to the opinion of officials, a number of wave channels will be in use in the transmitting of still and moving pictures in the form of entertainment, education and profit to the public.

MAY TRANSMIT THOUGHTS.

Some idea of the possibility of practical use of television in the future was given by the statement of Dr. Frank R. Jewett, vice-president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, that television was further advanced now than was unimpaired telephony when first demonstrated in 1915, eleven years before it was put to commercial use.

Dr. C. O. Abbott, acting secretary of the Smithsonian Institution and closely identified with many scientific projects, spoke over the apparatus from Washington and said that in 16 years "there may be other developments needing the apparatus whatever by means of which human thought may be transmitted at the will of the sender by the process which now we daily recognize as telephony."

The television demonstration, staged at the laboratories of the telephone company yesterday, was far in advance of the progress claimed for any other invention in the same field.

MANY PROJECTS PLANNED.

The work of John L. Baird, the Scotch inventor, who has been considered a leader in television research, is said to be less complete than that of the Bell system.

E. F. W. Alexanderson of the Radio Corporation of America has a television project which is still being developed. Many other television systems are in the proposed stage.

The basic principles of television are similar to those of the telephone. Like telephone instruments, electrically sensitive to sound, the television details are sensitive to light.

The subject, as he talks, is scanned by a fine great photoelectric eye.

The impressions made on these calls are transmitted into varying intensities of electric current and carried over wire or wave length to the receiving end where machines reverse the varying current back into light and shade. The result is a reproduction of the picture scanned by the electric eyes.

Los Angeles, April 8 (A.P.)—Indications were given today by Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist and founder of Angelus Temple here, that the two had come to a parting of the ways and that the evangelist might be leaving Los Angeles permanently.

Mrs. McPherson left the Kennedy home today, according to Mrs. Kennedy, and took up her residence in the former Not Goodwin home at 2001 N. W. Ave. With her went her two children and her secretary.

Mrs. Kennedy said in regard to the change, "It is a parting of the ways. Aimee is leaving her home here, but she has made a great sacrifice for her people and will be able to love her, we must leave our love."

"You know the people of New York want to build a temple for Aimee," Mrs. Kennedy continued. "Many times she is calling her and she will, I fear, have to answer the call."

COOLIDGE SEES
EARLY PEACE
IN NICARAGUA

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.
Editor of Universal Service
Washington, April 8.—Long before the newly elected Congress convenes here next December President Coolidge hopes to get all of the American man of war out of Nicaragua before the most of the American marines off Nicaragua.

To that end the President has adopted the recommendation of the Secretary of State and is sending to Nicaragua on a special mission Henry L. Stimson of New York, who was President Taft's Secretary of War and later a colonel in the A. E. F.

Last Autumn Colonel Stimson went to the Philippines to visit Governor General Wood and with him went all over those islands and brought back to President Coolidge very useful information regarding conditions there. General Wood had chief of staff while Mr. Stimson was Secretary of War. They were about the Philippines and are strong supporters of President Coolidge's program for Philippine progress within the law and under the flag.

There is little doubt in Washington that Mr. Stimson goes to Nicaragua with all the authority that is an ambassador on a special mission. His immediate effort will be directed toward an adjustment of differences between the Nicaraguan government and the opposition upon terms that will permit at the proper time, an election that the Washington government will go on to safeguard.

Whether this election can take place before the term of President Diaz expires next year is doubtful. Recently the Nicaraguan government forces have appeared to be in the ascendancy in the field. Probably more satisfactory terms can be made with the revolutionists now than would have been possible while Congress was in session at Washington.

There are today in Nicaragua more American warships and marines than the United States can afford to keep indefinitely for such a mission. Both men-of-war and marines are in great demand at this moment in Chinese waters where the job of protecting American lives is putting the navy and the marines corps to a severe test.

Peace in Nicaragua will release the naval forces there for use across the Pacific. Under the command of Admiral Latimer in Nicaraguan waters are the cruisers Cleveland, Rio Grande, Tulsa, Denver, Galveston and Detroit, and the destroyers James Tracy and Walpole.

In addition to these warships engaged in keeping the peace are twenty-three hundred marines commanded by Brigadier General Peckham. Their job is to protect the neutral zones that have been set aside in order that American and European property in Nicaragua may not be destroyed by the opposing Nicaraguan forces.

A Startling Serial Story of Love, Terror and the Night Clubs

Jaqueline Kay, nineteen, attractive and ambitious, comes to Boston from Houlton, Me., in search of a career. She has a splendid voice, but fails to obtain an engagement. She is sent by an agent to the Bee Hotel, a cabaret of the better class. She and another girl are selected for a final try-out, and the girl tells Jacqueline that she has "it," the magic something that means success, but to watch her step. Julius Lupino, proprietor of the cabaret, arrives, and singling Jacqueline out at a glance, tells her to sing for him.

Lupino, after hearing Jacqueline sing, engages her at what appears to her—the princely salary of $50 a week. She feels and fears the fascination of the man. He tells her that he likes her and when he likes a girl, no one else "butts in."

Jaqueline on leaving the cabaret, reviews her former hard impoverished life. Wealth, happiness and success seem at last hers, and she starts a letter to her mother telling of her engagement. She finds herself strangely disturbed by the compelling, half awesome personality of Julius Lupino.

Jaqueline's first appearance proves a sensation. Lupino goes to her dressing-room and congratulates her, and Jaqueline again feels the attraction of the man, while trying to convince herself that she hates him. Lupino invites her to meet some of his friends.

CHAPTER 5

ONCE again, more powerful than ever before, Jaqueline felt herself shaken by the sheer force of Julius Lupino's virile radiations of personality. Despite her flaming anger, as he stood before her with his hand outstretched, she realized that she was quivering; that, against her will, the antagonism in her breast was melting, was scattering. A wave of disgust at her own weakness swept over her, but the sense of defeat was small, gradually numbing her powers of resistance.

"Don't be foolish, now," Lupino wrote her command early. "Come on, shake hands and forget it."

A force, subtle and compelling seemed to act into her body, her eight arm her hand moved forward and pressed in Julius Lupino's palm. The pressure of his hand was quick but strong; a surge of vitality seemed to seep through Jaqueline's nerves.

"What life's got to be understood, once and for all, that you cannot humiliate me by telling strangers, or anybody, that you have any authority over me," she declared with a return of firmness.

"That was only a joke. We both know it, don't we?"

"I don't like that sort of joking, Mr. Lupino."

"If you're worrying about what Tom Wane thought," Lupino said penetratingly, "you can forget that. No one is to get any wrong idea about you and me. Tom's a wise old man, and you made a big bit with him."

"That," said Jaqueline, proudly, does not interest me one way or another."

Julius Lupino looked at her steadily, as though he were fathoming her thoughts. "It's funny about women, the way they beat around the bush," he said. "Why don't you admit straight out that you got an awful kick as soon as you laid eyes on him? He fell for you, too. I got it in an instant. Why don't you admit it?"

"A tide of color came back to Jaqueline's face. "Then it's what you please turn to Page 57, Column 2."

Lost Purse Quickly Returned by Police

The police of the Brighton station earned high praise for their quick work in recovering a purse lost by Miss Mary Kelley while on her way to the St. Elizabeth's Hospital to visit a friend.

The purse was lost on an "L" car, but a telephone call to the car barn located the lost article in short order.

When Miss Mary Kelley of 118 Beacon street, Back Bay, lost a valuable article she not only told the police, but also the entire circulation of the American Advertiser (over 50,000) and her loss was quickly turned into gain.

For quick action telephone calls were made to the police and the ad-act—Advt.

BAR 'SMOKING TEACHER'

Wife Calls Cram 'Cruel Mate'

HE CHASED WOMEN, SHE SAYS

Mrs. Cram Testifies Murder Threat in Separations Suit Against Aged Husband

Portraying her husband, not as a matroned, slighted old man, but as a cruel mate, Mrs. Alice F. Cram, sister of former Lieutenant-Governor Edward P. Barry, testified in her suit for separate support in Probate Court today.

For thirty-five years, she said, Cram pinched her when she sat and mistreated her until she had to leave him on the advice of physicians under whose care she has been ever since. Describing the life of 1913 and 1914 as unbearable, she testified her husband embarrassed her in their summer home by his improper actions.

In their contracting business, she testified, he spent the time "using other women" while she ran the business, kept the books and read the bills. Cram was a railroad construction gang foreman earning $9 a month when she married him, she testified.

At various letters to a Miss Smith, who was a guest at the Cram home, were scolded by the court. According to Mrs. Cram, her husband had preceded the letters by coming into the summer home at Fairmount and chasing the woman to her room.

After a complaint by a woman, Mrs. Cram testified, she asked her husband to behave and he threatened to murder her. Another one of Cram's peculiarities, she testified, was his insistence on prompt service at meals. When dinner was late he would swear and curse and threaten to kill her, featuring some of his tirades by spilling his glass of water and breaking crockery, she testified.

Under direct examination by Atty. Harold J. W. Sullivan she described incidents at Fairmount during 1921 and 1924 which caused her embarrassment and ill health as a result.

Mrs. Cram was the founder and first president of the Women's Democratic Club of Massachusetts. She is asking for a separation on the grounds of cruelty. She also charges her husband made their division of the profits from the sale of their contracting business in 1924.

The couple were married in 1913. Mrs. Cram is 15 years younger than he.

Free Public Concert

A free public concert will be given under the auspices of the Museum of Fine Arts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra at the Museum Wednesday night, April 10, Arthur Fielder, conductor, has arranged a program of favorite numbers, which include a tribute to Beethoven, and one number by a modern composer.

Charles Pond now a resident of the State Prison in Charlestown, will not write a book on his life while in prison.

His request for permission was denied today by Sanford Bates, Commissioner of Corrections, on the ground that Pond's life story is a ready-made book.

Pond, in his request, said he wanted to raise money through the sale of books to support his impoverished wife and aged mother.

Worcester, April 8.—Four persons were rescued from a burning tenement today by a lone policeman, who collapsed after he accomplished his rescue. The officer is Arthur Dunne.

The rescued are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shahaglan, carpenter, of the second floor at No. 11 Kew street, and the two children of Peter Ducas of Northumberland, agreed to fight Macbeth. Preparations were made for a great battle.

Bar New Hampshire Girl as Jersey Schoolmarm Because She "Smokes and Drinks"

Trenton, N. J., April 8 (A.P.).—By a vote of 5 to 2 the State Board of Teachers' Examiners here has refused a permanent teacher's certificate to Miss Helen Clark of Seacacus, N. J.

The young woman was refused to certify by the Seacacus Board of Education after she was charged with smoking cigarettes and eating drinks after school hours, as well as being inefficient in her work and failing to pay for her teachers' training.

Ms. Clark for some months has sought the ruling through the various channels of school authorities to the State board and also in the courts as high as the State Supreme Tribunal, without avail.

ADmits SHE SMOKED.

In her previous appeals she has acted on technicalities of the original procedure, however, and she may yet appeal to State Education Commissioner John H. Logan, or the Supreme Court on the certificate.

Her counsel is Secretary of State Joseph F. S. Fitzpatrick of Jersey City.

The young woman is said to have admitted at hearings that she smoked in her room, but that her New Hampshire parents did not object to it. She denied the alleged drinking or inefficiency, also contending the Seacacus residents had never complained of her.

Now School Clerk.

After the charges were made she is said to have paid $50 on a training account at the normal school in Keene, N. H., claiming she had been unable to get before.

Her counsel asserted that she had been employed as a clerk by the Seacacus school officials at a salary of $120 a year.

South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

Each hand shall be played with a complete hand presented by Mr. Whitehead, together with a chart upon which the bidding and play may be noted.

Tomorrow we shall publish Mr. Whitehead's explanation of today's hand.

Full out your own chart and compare it tomorrow with Mr. Whitehead's method.

These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i. e., as though all four hands were exposed.

Yesterday's Hand as Played by Mr. Whitehead

SALIENT POINTS OF THE PLAY.

Trick 1. I pass West a lead of the four of Spades and the spreading of Dummy's hand. South, the declarer, realizes that in order to make game he must win the trick in Spades without the loss of a trick in that suit.

Trick 2. South leads the four of Spades, which the declarer wins with the King. The lead of the four of Spades, with the two smaller Spades missing, indicates that West probably held two Spades originally. If South allows the declarer to take a Diamond trick, that, with four Spades tricks, stops game. Dummy has only one stop entry, the King of Clubs, but South realizes that he will need two entries in Dummy, in order to finesse the Diamond twice, in case East holds the King of Diamonds with two aces. South, therefore, returns to provide another entry in Dummy in the Spade suit, by playing the nine of Spades on West's four. If East holds the ten of Spades, this strategy will prove successful, as South must take the trick in his own hand. Since East holds no higher card than the nine, dummy has the trick.

Trick 3. The second Diamond finesse, like the first, proving successful, with both King and Queen, thereby establishing the Jack as an entry in Dummy, allowing him to take two Diamond tricks.

Trick 4. The third Diamond finesse, like the first, proving successful, with both King and Queen, thereby establishing the Jack as an entry in Dummy, allowing him to take two Diamond tricks.

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO INCREASE JUDGES' PAY

The House today stood by its original act in favor of giving a salary increase of $3,000 a year to the justices of the Supreme and Superior courts and to the judges of the land courts. An amendment to the bill increasing the increase by $1,000 was rejected on a voice vote, 27 to 86.

The Supreme Court judges now get $12,000, the chief justice an additional $200. The Superior Court judges get $10,000, the chief justice $1,200. The land court judges get $10,000.

Macbeth

My Lady Mad

Shakespeare's Tragedy of Ambition

"By the pricking of my thumbs, Something wicked this way comes." Macbeth, having made himself king by murdering King Duncan, went to the witch's cave for advice. They prophesied that he would be "unconquered till Birnam wood shall come to Dunsinane." A great fear in his heart.

"Each new more widows howl, new orphans cry, new sorrows shake heaven's face." Macbeth, having murdered, Macbeth found himself steeped in blood, trying to hold his blood-stained crown. When Macduff escaped to England, Macbeth had his wife and children murdered for revenge.

"Not in the legions of hell can come A devil more damned in evils than Macbeth." Macduff, in England, urged Prince Malcolm to return and lead the party against Macbeth. Malcolm, aided by the powerful Siward, Earl of Northumberland, agreed to fight Macbeth. Preparations were made for a great battle.

"Here's the smell of blood still! All the perfumes of Arabia will not sweeten this hand." While the army in the south gained strength against Macbeth, he was busy against Macbeth. He started by walking in her sleep through the hallways of the castle, trying to wash imaginary bloodstains from her hands.

With the Schoolboys

Although billed as a practice contest, the Somerville High-Somerville Alumni game at Dilboy Field today is sure to be hard fought from the first to the ninth inning.

The alumni players refuse to be lulled into considering the game a practice affair, and promise to show the world that schoolboy baseball isn't what it used to be in the dim and distant past.

Coch Charles Dickerman of Somerville High hopes to get a real line on his charges in the game with the alumni. The coach is sending Blanche, his star pitcher, to the mound. McDermott will do the catching.

The infield will line up with Donovan, first base; Goodwin, second base; Corbett, shortstop; and Leverett, third base.

McCarthy, left field; Tappet, center field; and Butler, right field, are the starters in the second line of defense.

Blush will pitch for the Somerville Alumni with Watson doing the catching.

Cook, Truhouse, Sullivan, Simpson, McInnis, Currier and Walker are other players with the Alumni nine.

Somerville High will make its official bow on the diamond a week from Saturday when Melrose High comes to Dilboy Field.

Track and field athletes representing Boston high schools are to have a busy season. The schedule has not been completed yet, but arrangements have been made to hold district, city and regional meets in May.

The Boston schools will also enter athletes in both the Boston College and B. C. Regiments.

Melrose School entertains the Harvard freshman team at Concord tomorrow afternoon.

MEDBURY SAYS--

By JOHN F. MEDBURY

WHILE many politicians are continually waiting to keep the peace unmuzzled, thousands of married men are trying to revive free speech in the home.

ONE guy has kept his mouth shut and his voice under the covers.

HE had lockjaw last year and didn't find it out for three months.

THE poor fellow has insomnia and can't even talk in his sleep.

HE'S a great believer in phonation. When he dies he wants to return to earth as a phonograph.

BUT it won't do him any good. His wife will probably come back as the needle.

SINCE he's been married he's only had about ten words, and five of them were school.

HIS wife is so efficient that she asks him a question and then gives him the answer.

HE lost his voice at the altar.

THE minister took the words out of his mouth.

AND I'll take a judge to put them back again.

A MAN likes to be able to open his mouth and speak the words besides the bills.

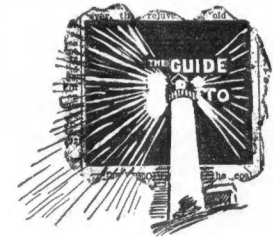

IT'S getting so that in the business of marriage, the husband is the silent partner.

ONE fellow says he longs for the good old days when his wife wouldn't speak to him for three weeks.

BUT even in the homes where free speech is allowed, very few husbands ever say anything worth listening to.

THE SAYINGS OF MRS. SOLOMON--BY HELEN ROWLAND

MY Son, not ALL the temptations of Spring are the call of the heart, the glance from a come-hither eye, and the tingle of a roving foot!

For, verily, the April Fool commits many follies, if he watcheth not his step.

Go to. There is the temptation to read the ravishing descriptions of suburban bungalows, and to go forth and sign away thy liberty for the rest of thy natural life, for a morsel of cottage in Madhurst.

And there is the temptation to peruse the motor-car advertisements, and to trade in thy faithful old touring car for a new sedan and a new set of problems and troubles.

There is the temptation to fling aside thine overcoat upon a fur and deceptive day. But when the snow falls and the wind blows upon the marrow, thou shalt find thyself laid low beneath a misadventure. And none shall pity thee in the hour of thy repentance.

And though it hath been said that, whatsoever a man soweth, shall he reap, yet many a man hath sown radishes and onions, only to reap wet feet and dandelions and runces.

There is the temptation to write for catalogues of mountain resorts, thyself married, if thou art still a bachelor, and to commit thyself and all thy worldly goods to some woman on the life.

And the temptation to wish thyself single, if thou art wedded, and to commit thyself to a foolish flirtation, and to the writing of sentimental verses for which thou shalt pay dearly before the first snow fall.

Verily, verily, the temptations of spring are as many as the tatarons of Broadway—and a million times more dangerous. And only a strong man may escape their seductiveness.

Candidate of the People

Why Chicago Again Elected William H. Thompson Mayor?
"America First," His Chief Appeal

"Big Bill" Thompson will for the third time be Mayor of Chicago, chosen by 35,000 more votes than went to both his opponents in an election in which a million citizens voted.

It was a clear victory for the candidate of the people. Rightwings and leftwings alike were hostile. Thompson lost in the silk-stocking districts and in the famous First Ward, controlled by "Bathhouse John" Goughlin and "Hinky Dink" McKenna. He won by the vote of the average citizen, whose Mayor he proposes to be.

WM. HALE THOMPSON.

Mayor-elect Thompson is one of the picturesque and vital men in American politics. A sportsman, the son of an old and prominent family, a millionaire in his own right, he is a born Democrat. Prepared for Yale, he chose, instead, to punch cattle in the West. Before he was twenty, one he had made a stake of thirty thousand dollars of his own. The broad-brim hat and the breezy air of the plains are still with him.

As Alderman in 1910, "Big Bill" was responsible for the playground movement in Chicago which has since spread to the entire country. Elected Mayor in 1915, he enforced the Sunday closing law against saloons. The law had long been on the books, but disregarded. Mayor Thompson held his ground in the face of a protest parade of sixty thousand thirsty Chicagoans. Yet in this last campaign his enemies tried to represent him as the candidate of the forces of lawlessness and disorder.

He was eight years Mayor, from 1915 to 1923. It was a golden age for Chicago, signalized by growth of parks and playgrounds, boulevards and schools, and the development for public use of Chicago's magnificent waterfront.

"Big Bill" taught Chicago to be proud of itself. He invented the slogan, "Drop your hammer and get a horn." He ran Chicago's memorable Pageant of Progress. In 1920 he organized the Chicago Boosters' Publicity Club, composed of business men who subscribed a million dollars to tell the world what Chicago was.

The people feel he really does things for Chicago. Every one else had failed to get the Government to dig the Chicago-Mississippi waterway, giving Chicago cheap water transportation to the Gulf. Bill Thompson took hold and put it through Congress last December.

Yet he was elected primarily on an "America First" issue. That was his whole campaign, full of picturesque maxims like "What the United States needs is a few more Americans in the Senate." The appeal worked in Chicago, just as it has worked the last year wherever made in the primaries and elections in Massachusetts, Maine, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Indiana, Missouri, New Hampshire and Idaho. The people want the Government to stay out of European entanglements.

"Big Bill" does not look at this as a local but as a national issue. He has organized an "America First" Association in Chicago with seven hundred thousand members, and it is rapidly spreading.

This newspaper congratulates Chicago and sends greetings to her new Mayor.

Watertown, Mass.

Population 21,457, Eight Miles Out of Boston, Wants a Place in the Sun—and Is Entitled to It.

DO we need publicity for Massachusetts?

Consider the case of our neighbor Watertown, largest manufacturing TOWN in the United States, and hear Mr. Pierce Fish addressing a meeting called to consider the formation of a civic branch of the new Chamber of Commerce:

"Two cars of freight, shipped to my address from a city in Connecticut, are tied up in the freight yard at Watertown, NEW YORK, in spite of all the labels we could use."

So, they don't know OUR Watertown, where the Walker & Pratt ranges are made, where the L. O. Chase company makes motor robes for America, where the Hood Rubber Company gives employment to approximately 10,000 persons!

Don't know WATERTOWN, home of the largest cleaning and dyeing plant in America, seat of a famous Government Arsenal.

Is it, or isn't it, time to consider not merely the advisability but the NECESSITY of a publicity program for ALL Massachusetts?

"We have lagged behind the West in pushing this idea of co-operation," Congressman Frederick W. Dallinger told the Watertown meeting, "and it is high time we were putting New England back into FIRST place."

Right you are, Mr. Congressman!

SMALL CREATURES MAY DESTROY US

By DR. FRANK CRANE

OUT from a lake legion near Bakersfield armies of mice began to invade the surrounding country.

All the resources of the inhabitants were summoned to contend with them.

They came not in hundreds but in millions. People dug trenches and filled them with poisoned grain. Many of the mice died, but their brothers kept right on.

The United States government was appealed to for aid. This calls attention to our greatest menace from the lower world.

Man is always in combat with the little folk from microbes to mice and to maintain his place upon the earth. It would seem as though human beings had enough trouble fighting the insects and other small creatures without fighting each other.

Yearly the crops in various districts are decimated by pests of one kind or another and human ingenuity is taxed to the utmost to contend with them. It is a well accepted theory that most of the diseases incident to humanity arise from microscopic organisms and scientists are constantly on the watch for other organisms to combat them.

The study of the entomology of the mouse world and micro organisms is not a useless and ornamental study alone, but has very practical bearings.

Respect the biologist.

Mice along with mosquitoes and flies are natural enemies of mankind. They must be kept in check or they will destroy the human race.

Of course mice and other "such small deer" should not be tortured, but any plan to exterminate them mercilessly and quickly should be discouraged.

Nature "red in tooth and claw" makes them the prey of birds and other animals. Somehow nature preserves the balance in her realm.

Any species of small animals if left alone would speedily overrun the earth. The shed if allowed to breed and hatch without limitation would soon fill up the ocean. Their multiplicity is only kept down because they are the prey of other creatures.

Swat the fly, kill the mosquito and exterminate the mice. This should be the program of men if they wish to retain their position on the earth. It is a mere matter of self-defense. Unless we destroy these small creatures they will destroy us.

BOSTON DAY-BY-DAY

SEES
CAPT. BERNARD HOPPE of the Intown traffic squad can never be called a "desk commander." During the rush hours every day he can be found out on the street giving a hand where it is needed and keeping in personal touch with the conditions. In this way he is able to shift his men, as the pressure or decrease of "business" warrants at different corners. He doesn't need reports from subordinates as to the efficiency of the men of his division. He sees for himself.

A steamship agent and a sailor are two different things, according to DANIEL J. HARKINS, New England manager of the Hamburg-American and United American Lines. DAN greets his incoming passengers at quarantine and learned a lesson recently in making the trip on the boarding cutter Mackinac. Seeing a sailor dirty up a rope-wrapping pull for sea water, the "officer sailor" as he now calls himself, thought he saw the knock. The sail submerged, taking the rope-

LEAPING AROUND
One of the busiest men in the NATIONAL GUARD is LIEUTENANT COLONEL HENRY D. CORMERAI, Division Director of the 27th DIVISION. He is hoping to all parts of the State two or three nights a week, inspecting guard units. He will not be able to "call it a day" until well into spring.

COL. CORMERAI was war-time aide to GENERAL EDWARDS, this being an unusual honor accorded a National Guard officer by a general officer of the regular establishment.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

MARTHA has been reading about intercity complexes. She says she has one, due to the childhood domination of a racing motor and a bullying father. And now she is a genuine distress, which may be made miserable by this harking her and of others and constant belittlement of herself.

"How can I cure it, Elsie?" she cries in a genuine distress, which may be made miserable by this harking her and of others and constant belittlement of herself.

"I don't know whether you can cure it, Martha. I doubt very much if it is possible for us to eliminate the handicaps in our own nature or 'make ourselves over'."

I have never met anyone yet who has made himself over. But I have met a great many people who have learned how to adapt their temperaments and customs to the demands of the world in which they live.

They didn't cure their complexes, but they discovered how to handle them, which is almost as good for all concerned. I think you can do this too, Martha.

How?

First by getting your own number.

I'm not using that expression in a slangy way. I mean it literally. Rise yourself up, audit your own importance and see how small your number is in comparison with the huge total of humanity.

That's a pretty hard thing for a person complexed usually thinks that he belittles himself. As a matter of fact, he does neither of the sort. He magnifies himself.

He is always struggling his stuff in the weight of his personal doubts and fears and overlooking the rest of the game. He forgets that his doubts and fears are of but small consequence beside the huge mass of human problems.

Study one of your own "moments of humiliation" and you'll see that this is true.

So begin thinking of the other fellow's problem and forget your own.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALAN MICHAELS

SO much is in the wind's re-voice as only utter joy begets, for now the wind and I again greet March... and whistled Long since, now a stupified hill some good from out his careless hands these matching flowers chance to spill that speak of fairer lands. In all Earth's bowing no blossom should such sweeten trim any shrub or tree.

own, Martha. Every time you come embraced by your inner turmoil, stop and say to yourself— "This is unpleasant but it isn't unique. Millions of other people are also embarrassed. Millions of other people know doubt and fear."

Think of Others

"Perhaps if I'll begin to think of their misery I'll forget my own. For after all, that's what the world wants from me. The big human family doesn't care a hoot whether I'm a graceful party speaker. They're not interested in seeing me still my own stool. They want my sympathy—my understanding—my friendly service, no matter how crudely it is expressed."

THIS DAY YOU STOP TRYING SO DAMNED HARD TO BE BE-TERIOR. FOURTEEN YEARS BEING AN INFERIOR LADY. And Fred thought couldn't give you a better psych-analytical tip than that.
